

Why I cannot believe a thing Kerry and Obama say about Syria

by Richard Ochs, www.freefromterror.net

Except that lots of Syrians were poisoned, anything else the U.S. regime says about Syria cannot and should not be believed. So-called U.S. intelligence reports are just pieces of paper that somebody decided to write down and serve out to a gullible public. The U.S. government cooked the books, that is, falsified intelligence on Iraq before invading, so why not now? Kerry's abomination was just another Colin Powell moment. I wanted to throw up listening to lie after lie after lie, knowing people would swallow it because they trust Obama or Kerry.

It is the height of folly to believe that the Obama regime is any different than the Bush regime with foreign policy. Why? Because the Obama regime did not prosecute anyone in the Bush regime for torture, "collateral murder," war crimes, lies, perjury, treasonous inside jobs, coverups, accessory before and after the facts, violations of domestic and international laws including the Military Code of Justice and Nuremberg Judgement. His "look forward not backward" excuse is false because the past is prologue, if not in Obama's term, then in future presidents' terms. A precedent has been established. He is no dummy and has to know that.

The Obama regime allowed the CIA to destroy evidence of widespread torture of captives and accelerated the prosecution of whistle blowers who reported such crimes. Agent John Kiriakou, who blew the whistle on CIA torture, is rotting in prison along with Chelsea Manning, who exposed war crimes. The criminals were not prosecuted. In addition, the Obama regime continues to torture prisoners cleared for release from Guantanamo with forced nasal feedings. His regime kept FBI chief Richard Mueller, who covered up the 2001 anthrax inside job, on the job until just last week. Obama is trained in international law and has no excuse for covering and continuing Bush's crimes.

Obama is one of them. Drones are making more enemies than they are killing, as proven in the testimonies and motivations of captured terrorists. The corporate elite, who is getting rich from Oil Wars, want more enemies to justify oil wars under the guise of chasing terrorists.
